LOCATION

Yokohama is a vibrant city that combines technological innovation, Japanese tradition, and excellent infrastructure for international events. Located next to Tokyo, it offers easy access from major airports and high-speed trains, making travel convenient for participants from around the world. Its modern convention district, featuring venues such as Pacifico Yokohama, is specifically designed to host academic and scientific conferences.

The city is also home to research centers, universities, and technology companies that create an ideal environment for knowledge exchange in engineering. Beyond the congress itself, attendees can enjoy the iconic waterfront area of Minato Mirai 21, along with museums, parks, and a rich culinary scene. Its blend of modernity, efficiency, and cultural attractions makes Yokohama a perfect destination to combine science, networking, and an international experience.

CONGRESS VENUE

PACIFICO YOKOHAMA

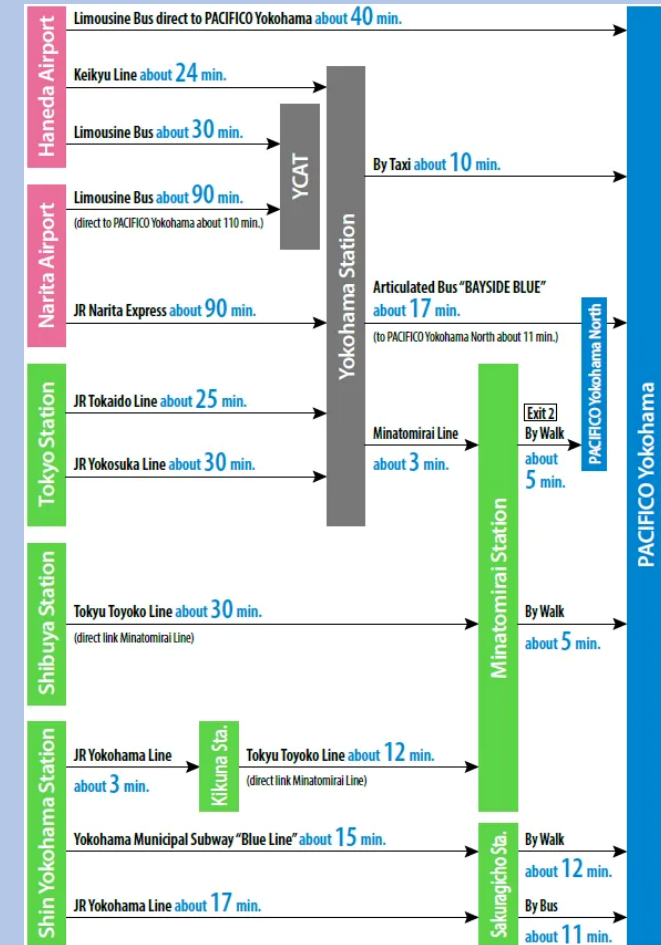

Pacifico Yokohama is one of Japan's largest convention centers and a well-established venue for international conferences. Located in Yokohama, it is easily accessible—about 30 minutes from Haneda Airport and well connected to Tokyo and the Kansai region. Its modern all-in-one facilities and waterfront setting provide an ideal environment for global academic events and collaboration.

ADDRESS

Pacifico Yokohama offers excellent accessibility. Located in the Minato Mirai 21 area, it is only a few minutes' walk from Minatomirai Station and about 15 minutes on foot from Sakuragicho Station. The venue can be reached from Haneda Airport in around 40 minutes by direct bus or train, making travel convenient for international participants. It is also well connected to Japan's rail network, with access to the Shinkansen via Shin-Yokohama Station in about 20 minutes. These efficient transport links make the venue easily accessible from Tokyo and other major cities.
