SPONSORSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

MARINE 2025

The XI Conference on Computational Methods in Marine Engineering (Marine 2025) will be held in Edinburgh, Scotland, on 23-25 June 2025.

Marine conference is one of the Thematic Conferences of the European Community on Computational Methods in Applied Sciences (ECCOMAS) and a Special Interest Conference of the International Association for Computational Mechanics (IACM). It is also supported by other scientific organizations in Europe and worldwide.

The objective of Marine 2025 is to be a meeting place for researchers developing computational methods and scientists and engineers focusing on challenging applications in marine engineering.

By marine engineering we include applications within the maritime and offshore industry as well as scientific and engineering challenges related to the marine environment. The conference goal is to make a step forward in the formulation and computational solution of marine engineering problems accounting for all the complex couplings involved in the physical description of the problems.

The conference covers the entire range of issues and technologies related to the application of computational methods to ships and offshore structures, including: ship hydrodynamics, structural analysis of ships and marine structures, offshore structures, sea-pipe mechanics, advances in mechanical methods for marine engineering (new finite element, finite difference, finite volume and boundary element methods, particle methods, meshless methods, etc.), computational environmental mechanics in marine problems, algorithms for solving multidisciplinary problems in marine engineering, marine engineering and shipbuilding applications.

CONFERENCE VENUE

ADDRESS

The congress will be held at Appleton Tower, where both the lectures and coffee breaks will take place. To maximize the visibility of the sponsors, the coffee area will be where they will be positioned.

EXHIBITION AREA

The exhibition area will be located in an open space of the Appleton Tower, where the coffee break will be held.

Appleton Tower is the centerpiece of the University of Edinburgh's George Square Complex and offers five state-of-the-art lecture theatres, each seating 200 to 300 delegates, plus a teaching studio, seminar spaces, and an extensive concourse area.

The Appleton Tower concourse space is particularly suited to exhibitions and poster displays, making this an ideal venue for lectures and presentations, or as a breakout space for events held elsewhere in the George Square area.
